

Bourne
toWrite... creative writing
workshops

I've often

by Caroline Sims

I've often fantasised about finding a massive stash of cash, but, what would be the use,
spent on longings,
and useless trash.

But, what if I befell true wealth, seen through a global lens, magnifying the language of nature, and captivating its invisible beauty , then surely I would walk with friends .

So a great windfall of coins, with its sparkling certainties prompts the loose change to speak its knowledge of known and untold possibilities.