

Bourne
toWrite...
creative writing
workshops

Quite like old times

by Caroline Sims

Quite like old times, the room said, speaking stories through the walls.

Of memories, ephemeral
echoing soft distant calls.

Of others, their company
beckon a still sentience.

A company to be kept,
in their light presence.

Now, the room holds the tense
of a new day.

Bridging the past,
of a time missed, yet to stay.