

Words

by Fran Duffield

Words are to be taken like a medicine, kill or cure once they are frothed from the bottle, exploding, running chill down the side, there is no containing them, sour, bitter sweet their taste will stain you like fruit, like pitch, like blood, words are not light things,
words are to be taken seriously